CLOSING INCIDENTS.

JOLLY CALIFORNIANS MUCH IN EVIDENCE.

Make Many Hits at National Convention
During Closing Scenes.

Mayberry Pins Badge on Mrs. Longworth and Another on Husband "Nick" at the Same Time Instructing Him That It Must Be Pinned on His Father-in-Law—Carr Tells of Closing Incidents.

BY HARRY C. CARR.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, June 19.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Nothing is left but the circle of hay where the elephant stood. The delegates are flying to escape the Chicago hotel-keepers while they still have car fare.

At last "Peacecock Alley" is deserted and the Princess Alice is gone. But she took a California badge away with her. While she was watching the convention today, Harry Mayberry of Los Angeles came to her box and held out one of the California badges. They are beautiful and costly, being a facsimile of the old California 500 slug hanging by an orange ribbon from a California bear. Alice reached out her hands with a little cry of pleasure.

"We are doing this partly because we like you and partly because California loves your father," said Mayberry, and with that he pinned the badge on her gown.

"Thank you so much," she said, and impulsively put out one white gloved hand. Mayberry backed off.

"My hands are soaking with perspiration," he said. "They'll ruin your dress."

Alice looked at him with dancing eyes.

"I see you are a married man," she said. Mayberry laughed and handed up a badge to Nicholas Le-growth.

"That's just loaded," he said; "you are to pin that on your father-in-law."

Mr. Longworth promised. When Mrs. Longworth went away she was wearing the California badge. She has been the feature of the convention.

SHERMAN INSTITUTE DAY.

There ought to be joy among the Apaches and the Chickasaws and the Comanches at the Sherman Institute at Tuscon, Arizona. The school was named after James Sherman, who was nominated for Vice-President today.

The last day of the convention was a busy affair. A lot of cheap one-dollar politicians from the "rubber district" were present. The candidates for President yesterday, but the candidates for Vice-President were presented by men of national power and influence, like Cannon, Lodge, Will, and others.

In fact, the candidates themselves were simply not in it. The honorees all went to the men who placed them before the convention. Dear old Uncle Joe was the belle of the ball. It is characteristic of the steam roller that the real convention took place last night in Frank Hitchcock's rooms in the Auditorium Annex.

Senator Beveridge came up in the elevator and rushed madly through the auditorium for reporters to his room. He escaped being interviewed. A mysterious young man in a dress suit peeked out of the door and looked anxiously around then popped back. Pretty soon Senator Hopkins came out at 11 in an evening dress. He looked grim and angry.

"God knows what they are going to do. I am going to bed. I have been for Fairbanks all the time."

Someone asked him about Sherman of New York and he smiled.

I am informed by some one pretty close to the throne that they were ordered and were turned on and turned off exactly according to the programme. When you see a delegate shriek and howl like a maniac for awhile, then sit down with perfect composure to rest before yelling again, it's hard to believe he's being shaken by much emotion.

DISMANTLED.

The California headquarters were dismantled tonight. One woman, a former Californian, was so anxious for a souvenir that she took down one of the printed signs and cried when she saw the decorations being packed up for California.

The delegation held a meeting and gave Mike de Young a loving cup. Votes of thanks were passed around to every one visible on the horizon.

Secretary Bancroft and Senator Flint are bound immediately for California; most of the delegation will tarry awhile.

Walter Parker is the object of a great peeve on the part of John Hays Hammond, who said he would have a strange hold on the Vice-Presidency if the fat one hadn't shown up. Mr. Hammond packed his million dollars' worth of clothes and has gone back to the mines. He's too good a fellow for this kind of game.

It's not that they didn't like Big Bill Taft, but you can't get much excited about a sure thing. When they saw Uncle Joe they said: "Look there's Uncle Joe. Wow! wow! wow!" When he came out on the rostrum to make his nomination speech the convention rose to its feet with one wild yell. The old man was almost overcome. He backed off from the storm of cheers. One of his sons stepped forward and held him back.

Old Uncle Joe was rattled. They mostly cheered the harder, and the harder he scratched his head and never left off until the cheering was done.

"I would rather be a door-keeper in the house of the Lord than dwell in the tents of wickedness," said Uncle Joe, as the tumult died away. A yell came from the crowd, and the splendid old fellow handed out a real speech in hot chunks.

CLASH OF UNCLE JOE.

Old Uncle Joe has class. It's too bad that the President's day at the convention could not have been in the hands of men like him, instead of yapping intellectual runts like Gov. Harty of Indiana.

Gov. Wilson of Kentucky seconded one of the nominations of Sherman in a manner so graceful and cultured that it was a delightful incident, although so short that he did not take the platform.

"That I stand here at my seat," he said, "is not an intimation that Mr. Sherman is a short horse soon curried, but rather that good wine needs no bush."

Then Dennis Flinn of Oklahoma put one across, and it was a peach. "Mister Chairman," he said, "we need the nomination of Mr. Sherman of New York. It's not because he's a peerless statesman, but because he's an honest man. He's one of the common herd. He's been in Congress many years, but he's as poor now as when he went there."

The crowd, which hooted down seven "ahims" orators yesterday, gave a yell that shook the windows, when Dennis sat down.

Half a dozen sparkling little speeches like these were made. The real men of the convention were something to be proud of.

LIFE-LIKE SKETCH OF VICE-PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE.

James S. Sherman of New York, who won the Republican nomination for Vice-President yesterday by a tremendous majority. He is generally regarded as the strongest kind of a running mate for William Howard Taft.

SHERMAN PECULIARLY FITTED FOR THE OFFICE.

JAMES SCHOOLCRAFT SHERMAN of Utica, N. Y., nominee for the Republican ticket for Vice-President, has a distinguished legislative record that peculiarly fits him for the office. Since 1886, with the exception of the two years from 1891-93, he has continuously held office as a member of the House of Representatives from the Twenty-seventh New York District, comprising the counties of Oneida and Herkimer.

Beginning with a term of two years as Mayor of Utica from 1884-86, Mr. Sherman's career has been one of ceaseless activity in the service of the people. He has before this been mentioned many times for other offices, but has consistently preferred to retain his seat in Congress. Had he not been nominated today for the Vice-Presidency he undoubtedly would have been returned to Congress by his constituents of Oneida and Herkimer counties.

WORK IS DONE.

Strong Ticket for Campaign.

Republican National Convention Ends in Burst of Enthusiasm.

Delegates Depart for Their Homes Leaving Only Leaders Behind.

Only Thing to Be Done Is to Select Man to Direct the Campaign.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.W.)

CHICAGO, June 19.—Taft and Sherman. This is the ticket of the Republican party, flung to the breeze today as the Republican National Convention concluded with the nomination of James S. Sherman of New York for Vice-President amid a roar of tumultuous demonstration. The vast audience was swept with wave of wild, exultant clamor as the multitude, realizing that at last the work was done and the record made upon which the Republican party rose before the country, united in one last mighty outburst of enthusiastic tribute to the men who will bear forward the standard in the struggle now at hand.

Another inspiring picture was presented today as the convention named its candidate for Vice-President. The enormous throng had waited through an hour of oratory sweltering in the heat-laden atmosphere, packed as before into solid masses of humanity with only the remote galleries—the delegates in the broad arena below, the bright head lines of femininity in the circling galleries and over all the enveloping folds of "Old Glory."

From the outset it was distinctly a Sherman crowd, with galleries already trained into choruses of Sherman songs and an invading host of Sherman marchers starting the echoes ringing with a huge portrait of the New York candidate. Among the early arrivals on the floor was Rep. Cannon, who yesterday a candidate for President, but today a pillar of strength in the Sherman movement.

The widespread affection for the old war horses of the party was also shown by the crowds of delegates swirling about him to grasp his hand and bid him welcome.

SHERMAN NAMED.

The preliminaries were brief, and at 10:30 o'clock the nominating speeches for Vice-President began with a limit of ten minutes to each speaker. On the call of States, Delaware yielded to New York and ex-Lieut.-Gov. Thomas L. Woodruff mounted the platform for a glowing speech placing the nomination Sherman as New York's choice for the Vice-Presidency. Now came a surprise, as the venerable Cannon, with his Lincoln-like visage and shaggy beard, emerged from the Illinois delegation and, stepping to the platform, was yielded unanimous consent to second the nomination of Sherman.

Such a picture of sturdy, homely plain American citizenship as Cannon appeared as he advanced before the throng which rose to do him homage has seldom been seen before a national convention. His face was beamed with sweat, his collar had melted to a rag which hung limp about his neck. His vest was thrown wide open, exposing a crumpled shirt and the sleeves of his black alpaca coat curled up about his shoulders, his hands were waving arms emphasized his ringing words.

FIVE DIE IN HEAT IN CHICAGO.

Thirty People at Convention Are Prostrated, but Prompt Attention at Hospital Saves Lives.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, June 19.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Five deaths as the result of the excessive heat, and many prostrations were reported to the police today. Thirty people attending the Republican National Convention were prostrated by the heat. They were hurried to the Emergency Hospital in the Collins, and treated by the doctor and nurses in charge of Dr. Hunt. They afterward were taken to their hotels. None of the cases resulted seriously, quick relief being afforded by the hospital.

The hot wave is general in the Mississippi River and Great Lakes region. There may be showers tomorrow, and they will temporarily cool things, but otherwise it looks like continued warmth.

GOMPERS RANTS ON PLATFORM.

SORE ON INJUNCTION PLANK HE DEMANDS "TOTAL CHANGE."

Says "Workers Will Stand by Our Friends and Elect Them, Will Oppose Enemies and Defeat Them." Threat Made in a Unionist Publication.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, June 19.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The opinion of Sam Gompers on the injunction plank in the Republican platform was given out by the labor-union boss tonight in advance sheets of an editorial to be published in the July number of the American Federationist, official publication of the American Federation of Labor.

Gompers, though extremely cautious in his utterances with reference to the Republican party and Presidential Candidate Taft, expressed dissatisfaction with the injunction plank adopted by the Republican convention. He refused, however, to express his sentiments toward Mr. Taft and referred to the editorial as giving his views on the subject of injunctions.

Following are extracts from Gompers' editorial:

"The psychological moment has arrived for a total change of governmental policy toward the workers.

"None can expect that the solers will completely accept the concept that they are a servile class and will submit to treatment at the hands of society less favorable than is accorded to citizens in other walks of life.

"To permit such a condition to be perpetuated would be the inauguration of a servile class—a condition repugnant to the very theory and possible existence of a free people, degrading to human liberty, to republican institutions.

"Property rights must be retained, but prior to and far beyond the rights of property, must come the rights of man.

"The workers, the liberty-loving public, will stand faithfully by our friends and elect them. They will oppose their enemies and defeat them, whether these aspirants for office be candidates for the Presidency, for Congress, or for other offices within the gift of the people.

"The workers have pleaded, appealed, and besought the powers responsible, but in vain. Labor will take no false promises as a substitute for performance.

"The time is ripe, the hour has come, the work is imminent, and must be done now.

"Those who will not recognize human rights, human freedom, above the rights of property, must go before the hosts of living, human, breathing men, who demand their fullest rights under the republic of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln."

WANT RAILROAD LABORERS.

Builders of Portion of Western Pacific in Nevada Issue Call for Workmen.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

RENO, June 19.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The Gray Construction Company, having the contract for building the Western Pacific from Golconda to the California-Nevada State line, has issued a call for laborers. Local employment agencies began today shipment of workmen to the camps in Humboldt county.

The resumption of activity is indicative of the Gould road's intention to finish the line early next year, although this was contradicted several months ago. According to advices received in Reno, the Utah Construction Company is preparing to rush work from Chillicothe to Sacramento.

POLITICAL BRIEFS.

Taft's Nomination Retified.

CHICAGO, June 19.—The executive board of the National Republican League has met here and ratified the nomination of William H. Taft for President. A telegram has been sent him, pledging the support of 350,000 members of the league in his campaign.

YOUNG HURRICANE.
WEBSTER WINS
GREAT BATTLE.Knocks Out Hennessy in Three Terrific Rounds.Lauder Has Robinson in a
Wobbly Condition.Splendid Card of Fast Bouts
Given by McCaray.Lauder beat Robinson, ten rounds.
Kutchko beat Young Togo, ten rounds.
Webster knocked out Hennessy, three rounds.
Pleato knocked out Astel, two rounds.Stadillo beat Donovan, four rounds.
If any fight was seen who saw the show at the McCaray pavilion last night was not satisfied, he would think Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries would make only a good preliminary.

It was by long odds the most exciting card that has been dealt here for months, and more than half the time the fans were on their feet, howling with delight in the expectancy of seeing a knockout in each battle, and the two that resulted seemed to act as an appetizer for more. Only about 1000 spectators were present, but they certainly got satisfaction.

The only fight that could be found with the performance as a whole was a six-round preliminary bout between Webster and Hennessy, who were put on as the third act. This was the tempestuous hurricane between Danny Webster, the local bantamweight, and Tommy Hennessy, who asserts he is the bantam champion of New England; and if he was, he isn't now, for Webster finished him in the third round.

FIGHT FURIOUSLY.

This was a fight if there ever was one, and right off the reel they tore into each other like bulldozers, and there was hardly a second in the first three minutes that the air was not actually cloudy with a storm of swings, jabs, uppercuts, leads and feints. The eye could not travel fast enough to keep account of the blows struck, and how often they stood up under that hail of blows was astonishing to the excited fans.

Webster turned over a new leaf in his book of experience and shot into Hennessy as he was going to throw him to bits. And to his surprise he found that Hennessy was no slouch, or he stopped back ferociously and fought Webster to a standstill for the first half of the round. It was plain, however, who would be victorious, for Danny had a dash that was not to be found in Hennessy's hair. He dug up Webster's hair and rocked his head, but while this was going on Webster was slamming Tommy with right and left swings that jarred him from up to tip. The result of the excitement only made the fight more exciting, and they were slugging like wild men when the bell rang. Webster was the aggressor and wanted into Hennessy as if he was a river of meal ticks, and the Webster family had been sent away from the lunch counter for work.

The second round was only a trifle less and Webster forced the fight from the start and went into Hennessy with swings to the stomach and awful volleys of blows to the head. Hennessy took to hugging, but still hugged away desperately.

TERRIFIC SLUGGING.

The third had the same terrific beginning, and in the middle of the round Webster crashed a right swing into Hennessy's face and knocked him to get up after about six seconds and into another rain of rights and lefts that sent him down for the eighth time, and when he arose the third time Webster rushed him and, landing a left swing on the jaw, put Hennessy down for good. He was all in before he could be counted out. After Hennessy was assisted back to his corner he wanted to fight some more and his seconds had to hold him. There can be no doubt that a good boy in this country, for he is a slasher like Webster.

The first knockout in the second preliminary of six rounds, between Pleato and Astel, this lasted but two rounds, for Pleato had the class, and knocked Astel down twice in the second round, the last one being practically a knockout. Astel was all in before he could be counted out. The main event was the final of ten rounds between Leonard Lauder and Bubbes Robinson, the colored boy, and under-bell Bubbes in this, having all the best of the latter rounds. It was a pretty exhibition of boxing, and while under in scientific, Bubbes had no trouble in punching him in the face and in the last seven rounds, and under-bell Robinson all around the ring. He could do as he pleased and peck at Lauder's face, and Leonard did him staggering and backing away for the fourth round.

LITTLE DAME.

Bubbes had the better of the first two rounds, but there was little real damage done. In the first round, near the end, he caught Lauder with a left swing as the latter was backing away and dropped him, the blow landing on a point of the chin. It was just hard enough to make him fall to one knee, but the third round Lauder woke up and played for Bubbes's stomach with left swings, and these took the steam out of the negro boy. It was then only a question of whether Lauder did knock out Robinson, but he failed this.

Every round was a busy one, and the fans continued to cheer. Lauder, in the face with his left and right, was no power in the blows, and under-bell Robinson all around the ring. He could do as he pleased and peck at Lauder's face, and Leonard did him staggering and backing away for the fourth round.

Jap, Togo, and Kutchko together and Kutchko was extra, from a physical bombardment of lefts to the stomach, which he varied with leads to the face. The Jap was the defensive much of the time, but under-bell Kutchko had in the end. He could not seem to get into the crowd, and in trying to, he was at the end. The boys were at it, and certainly did their part to make the card an exciting one.

The certain-raiser was four rounds between Stadillo and Jimmy Donovan, was a very good little bout. Stadillo had the better of the first round, but the other two were even, although Donovan did the better in the last round.

BETTING ON FIGHTS.

McFARLAND MADE FAVORITE.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Local betting on the Gains-Nelson fight, that was started with Gains a 10-to-1 favorite, could not stand the pressure, and tonight Tom Corbett announced that the odds had been cut to 10 to 1. The statement that the betting was 10 to 1, caused a rush of Gains coin, and when it became apparent there was no chance to make many wagers at 10 to 1, the Gains backers promptly offered 10 to 1. It is too far off for betting to be on a stable basis, but the chances are very strong that it will take a drop to 10 to 1.

Betting odds also changed tonight on the McFarland-Webster match, that is to take place at Los Angeles on July 4. McFarland is well liked here, and, after being installed a 10-to-3 favorite, the betting came down to 10 to 3, at which figure quite a number of tickets were written.

Jimmy Walsh, who is to fight Jimmy Carroll fifteen rounds next Friday night, is a 10-to-5 favorite, while Kyle Whitney and Jimmy Gardner, who fight the same evening at the Coliseum, are holding at even money.

BARRY KNOCKED OUT.

LANGFORD SCORES AGAIN.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, June 19.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Sam Langford of Boston knocked out Jim Barry of Chicago in the third round of their fight at the Palomar Athletic Club tonight. The battle, while it lasted, was one of the most exciting ever seen in this city, and the knockout was so sudden and clean that the spectators were taken by surprise. Langford had three runs, and then he landed a right on Barry's jaw, sending the Chicagoan down and out.

Up to the time that the finishing blow landed the fight was even.

With Barry rushing matters, Barry throughout the fight bore in, driving with his fists, and Langford did not appear to be in any danger. Langford, however, was a river of meal ticks, and the Webster family had been sent away from the lunch counter for work.

The second round was only a trifle less and Webster forced the fight from the start and went into Hennessy with swings to the stomach and awful volleys of blows to the head. Hennessy took to hugging, but still hugged away desperately.

to Be Played Today.

Simpson Sinabough had the time of his life yesterday in defeating younger Wimbledon in what was the most closely contested match played to date in the tennis tournament on the Virginia courts at Long Beach.

It required thirty games in two sets to return Sinabough a winner by the score of 10-8, 7-5. Had Mace played as strong a game in his match with Ward Dawson in the junior singles, he would likely have finished winner in the event.

Tom Borey showed remarkable form in his match with Lou Freeman, former Coast champion. He was practically perfect in every department of the game, and although Freeman showed rare good form he could not withstand the whirlwind smashes and terrific drives of his opponent, who won by a score of 6-3, 6-2.

In the ladies' singles, May Sutton, woman champion, defeated her sister, Florence Sutton, by a score of 6-3, 6-2, and Mrs. Bruce won from Mrs. Parquhar, 7-5, 6-4. Mrs. Bruce played a wonderfully clever uphill event, and the first set of this match, winning after the score read 3-5 and 40-15 against her.

The result of these two matches brings May Sutton and her sister, Mrs. Bruce, together in the finals, and notwithstanding the fact that the latter is a "newbie" in the game, the victory is already conceded to the famous lady.

The men's singles event has narrowed down to four, and the final will be played between Sinabough and Dawson, and between Mace and Borey.

These matches will be called for in the afternoon, and will be followed in rapid succession by three-ladies' sets, to be followed by the final match between Sinabough and Dawson, and between Mace and Borey.

CALL GOVERNORS' MEETING.
 National Resources Commission's Executive Committee Meets With Inland Waterways Board.
 (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.)
 CHICAGO, June 19.—The Executive Committee of the National Resources Commission, which organization is studying the outgrowth of the conference of Governors at the White House, met here today in conjunction with the Inland Waterways Commission.

The gathering was preliminary in nature, the scope of the work to be undertaken and the best methods of obtaining wide support for the movement being discussed. It was decided that the first full meeting of the commission shall be held in Washington December 1, this gathering to be followed two weeks later by a joint meeting of the national and state commissions, so far as the latter may then be organized.

Thomas R. Shipp of Indianapolis was chosen grand secretary of the Resources Commission, of which Clifford Pinchot is chairman. The following chiefs of division of the commission were also in attendance today: Water—Representative Theodore E. Burton of Ohio.

Forest—Senator Reed Smoot of Utah. Land—Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota. Mineral—Representative John D. McPherson of Pennsylvania.

At the joint meeting with the National Resources Commission the Inland Waterways Commission held a separate session, and discussed a proposition to visit Europe for a study of the waterways there. This discussion will be continued by mail and if a majority of the commission are able to make the trip it will be undertaken soon.

VEOTES LONG FRANCHISE.
 Minneapolis Mayor Says Renewal Every Ten or Fifteen Years Will Compel Good Service.
 (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.)
 MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.), June 19.—Mayor Hayes today vetoed an ordinance granting a thirty-year franchise to the Minneapolis General Electric Company.

In his veto the mayor said the only thing that would compel good service and reasonable rates from this company was a renewal of its franchise every ten or fifteen years. Several amendments were introduced, but they were all rejected.

He also recommended a small gross earnings tax sufficient to defray the expenses incident to the examination of the company's plant whenever a readjustment of rates or purchase of the plants should be under consideration.

AT POINT OF GUN.
 Employee of Hotel Robbed by Two Young Men, Who Got Watch and Cash.

A. H. Kemp, an employee of the Lila Hotel, was held up about 11 o'clock last night by two men at First street and Rio. With a revolver shoved close against his body he was compelled to march across the street in a vacant lot. Then he was searched, the robbers securing $2 and a gold watch and chain, valued at $5.

The highwayman with the gun ordered him to remain there until he and his partner were well out of the way. After remaining there for ten minutes Kemp went to the Police Station, where he gave a description of the men to detectives. They were both young and wore dark clothes and soft dark hats. The robbery occurred while Kemp was on his way home.

BOLD HOLD-UP.
 Masked Robbers Invade Saloon and Rifle Cash Register and Bar-Tender Threatened.

White A. J. Sowinski, bartender in Dan Pitts's saloon at No. 301 East First street, was counting up the day's receipts about 1 o'clock this morning, when two highwaymen entered with black masks drawn over the lower part of their faces and armed with revolvers. They commanded him to throw up his hands. One of the robbers marched him from back of the bar into a rear room while the other rifled the cash register. He secured $25 and then searched Sowinski. They examined his watch but gave it back to him.

Before they departed Sowinski was ordered to remain in the back room until they had time to get away. Then they walked out the back door again and disappeared. A moment before the two men entered, two customers left the place. Sowinski went to the front door, bolted it and then turned off the lights. He intended to take the cash receipts and then close up.

As soon as possible Sowinski notified the police. He furnished them with a description which in many respects compares with that given by A. H. Kemp, who was held up about 11 o'clock last night by two men at First street and Rio. They were apparently young men according to Sowinski's description. Both were dressed in dark clothes and wore dark soft hats. They used dark handkerchiefs for masks.

SUSPICIOUS FIRE.
 A fire believed to be of incendiary origin, slightly damaged the Murray Bros. store at No. 82 West Third street, at 11 o'clock last night. It was discovered in the rear of the building by a night watchman at the Globe Grain and Milling Company's store. He turned in an alarm and then attempted to extinguish the flames. When the firemen arrived they found that oil had been poured on the rear of the building. The damage was estimated at $5.

CO-EDS STUDY LIFE-SAVING.
 Carnegie Models and Husbands May Be Won by Pretty Members of Class.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
 CHICAGO, June 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Beautiful co-eds with loosened tresses flying in the stormy wind will dash through the surf, swim out with sturdy strokes, battle with giant waves and rescue shipwrecked sailors from watery graves, thus earning the Carnegie medals and husbands, if the present University of Chicago plans are carried out.

The higher education now includes a course in how to rescue drowning persons. Prof. Oscar A. Knudsen has organized a life-saving class, which many young women have joined. If it is successful, young women will be included, and many have clamored for admission to the hero school. Prof. Knudsen recently gave a course on rescuing persons from burning buildings.

CRIME SCHOOL IS GRADUATED.
 POLICE UNDEARTH A STARTLING WHOLESALE CASE.

Believe That Many Boys Have Become Thieves at Investigation of Second-Hand Dealers—Arrests Made Last Night and Quantity of Hidden Goods Found.

With the confession of two boys, a school of crime was unearthed yesterday, which resulted in the arrest of their alleged instructor and the discovery of a cache of $500 worth of stolen property. The school was located in the loudness of which the police believe has been in operation for months. The plot which was unfolded by the boys showed that a dozen second-hand stores worked in collusion as a "house" for thieves, and that at least forty boys were employed to steal and carry the "swag" to them. The boys who were caught to commit the crimes were given a small percentage of their booty.

Charles Adams and Raymond King are the boys who confessed to the police. They are now in the City Jail suspected of stealing a lot of carpenter's tools. Adams, a 16-year-old boy, conducted a second-hand store at No. 200 East First street. It is alleged, was their employer. When taken to the Police Station last night he refused to put up $1000 as bail. It was refused, and then his attorney offered to deposit a cash bond of $500 for Adams' appearance in court, which was refused.

For three months Patrolman Brown has been working on the case, and secured the information which led to the arrest and confession of Adams and King. He caught the boys hiding tools in a vacant lot in the rear of Alexander Draper's home, No. 1194 Banning street. When they were arrested they made a partial confession, and then detected on the case. It is said they secured a complete confession from the boys, who implicate several men in the affair.

According to King's confession, Draper employed them to steal. They received instructions from him as to where property was stored and how it could be easily stolen. After securing the booty they were ordered to cache it in a vacant lot in the rear of Alexander Draper's home, No. 1194 Banning street. When they were arrested they made a partial confession, and then detected on the case. It is said they secured a complete confession from the boys, who implicate several men in the affair.

When Draper was arrested last night at his home, he resisted, but was finally induced to go to the Police Station without further difficulty. A search warrant was secured and his place searched. In his barn was found several sets of tools which the police declare had been stolen. A box of tools were also uncovered. In the attic of his house they found a trunk which was filled with watches, silverware, jewelry and firearms of every description. In another place was found a box of valuable furs which had been stored away. The detectives looked over the stuff and placed its value at $5000.

According to King, there are several other caches in which property has been hidden, and the officers are going to take them out today in an effort to locate it.

Several patrolmen were detailed on the case last night, in plain clothes. They are watching the other second-hand stores where it is believed stolen property is stored. According to the boys' story, there is a number of second-hand dealers interested in the scheme, and each employed several boys to carry out their work. They told the police that they were compelled to do the work, after they had entered into the case last night, in plain clothes. After getting the stuff they were to cache it during the night time in one of the selected places. It was while King and Adams were planning some property that they were arrested. Draper denied any connection with the scheme. He admitted buying a set of harness last Monday, which he hid in the barn. This harness, he says, he intended for his own use. According

Bible Institute.
Rev. T. C. Horton will speak at the Bible Institute on Sunday evening on "Safety and Assurance." The address will be illustrated with stereoscopic views. By request, the following questions will be answered: "Is Christian Science Christian?" and "Where are the dead?" The public is cordially invited.

On Probation.
Francisco de Wilde of Thirty-seventh street and Central avenue, who pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals, was put on probation for forty days by a Police Court justice yesterday. He denies the story that he fastened the cage of puppies over their heads with safety pins. The canines are in the care of the S.P.C.A.

Heavy Imperial Traffic.
The enormous traffic in mail on the Imperial branch has forced the Southern Pacific to triple the number of locomotives used there. About eighty cars a day are being handled and some fifteen engines are employed. It also affects the main line, and has called for a large number of engines and rolling stock.

For Children's Hospital.
The Parent-Teacher Association of the Hoover-street school visited the Children's Hospital yesterday, taking with them two large automobiles filled with flowers and gifts for the little sufferers in the hospital. The Ladies' Mandolin Orchestra accompanied them and entertained the children with music.

Fourth of July Rates.
For the Fourth of July the Southern Pacific will sell tickets at one and one-third fare for the round trip between all California points where the rate one way is less than $10. The tickets will be on sale July third and fourth and will be good for return until July 6. The rate will extend as far north as Solano on the Coast line and Merced on the Valley route.

Will Celebrate.
The Democratic Club will keep open house Monday night to commemorate the change in management and to prepare for the active work in the State and county campaigns. The directors will meet early in the evening to settle some old scores. When this is over the hot pool will be admitted to the free feed in the new dining hall, George Hand, the new chef, will officiate for the first time.

Pass Resolutions.
In memory of Miss Agnes Elliott, who formerly held the chair of history at the State Normal School in Los Angeles, the Executive Committee of the alumni association was called together by President Frank F. Bunker yesterday and passed resolutions of sympathy and sorrow at the untimely death of this young woman, who made such a place for herself in state school circles.

For Grand Officers.
C. H. Coffey, president of Angelus Council, T.M.L., last night entertained J. E. Queen of San Francisco, Grand President of the order, at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coffey on Brooklyn Heights. Besides Mr. Queen were present: Lieut. E. H. Coffey, Dr. C. W. Shelton and Prof. F. A. O'Brien. The dinner was in the nature of a farewell before Mr. Queen returns to San Francisco.

Immanuel Orchestra.
The orchestra of Immanuel Presbyterian Church, under the direction of R. J. Nichols, gave its second concert before a large audience at the church last evening. A varied program of popular and classical numbers was presented. Gladys De Witt and Will Garraway appearing in individual performances. The orchestra was assisted by the Beane Furber string quartette, which was heard in four selections.

Miss Grey Here.
Miss Jane Grey, Belasco's new leading actress, registered at the Van Nuys last night, although she was not expected to arrive until Sunday. Miss Grey is a New York woman, though born in Vermont. She has had various experiences in stock, but more recently in vaudeville. She will rest for a week, commencing rehearsals the week following, and making her first appearance in the title part of "The Rose of the Rancho," on Monday evening, July 4.

"Bonds" Going Fast.
Secretary Frank Wingfield's "hard-boiled bonds" are going like hot-cakes. The price is $5 each, and the money is applied to the fund for celebrating the trans-Pacific yacht race, scheduled for July 4. The purchaser of a bond is entitled to ride in a special train to San Pedro over the Pacific Electric, and also to a seat on the summer steamer, which will follow the races over the first few miles of the course. Lunch will be served free on board to the passengers, and a fine time is assured. A number of parties are being formed for the day's outing.

Chapman Reception.
Under the auspices of the Church Federation, a public reception will be tendered Dr. Ervin R. Chapman, on the occasion of his seventieth anniversary. Tuesday evening, next, at Immanuel Presbyterian Church. Rev. E. P. Ryland will preside, and addresses will be made by Dr. Hugh K. Walker and A. J. Wallace. Among the musical features will be an organ solo by Bruce Gordon Kingsley. No personal invitations will be issued, but all friends of Dr. Chapman and persons in sympathy with his work are invited. A handsome souvenir booklet has been prepared for the occasion.

MAY LOSE AN ARM.
Victim of Maddened Tiger in Serious Condition at the County Hospital.

Herman Gerson, the keeper of the Esplanade Park Zoo, who was attacked and badly injured by a maddened tiger Thursday morning, is in a dangerous condition at the County Hospital. Heroic efforts are being made to save the man's arm. The right arm is so badly mangled that amputation may yet be necessary. Yesterday Gerson developed a high fever and anti-toxin serum was injected to prevent dangerous complications.

As a result of the attack upon Gerson, new cages will be built for the tigers and every precaution taken to prevent a second disaster.

OPENED WIDE
ITS CAMPAIGN.Banners and Buttons Are in Full View.Taft-Sherman Prosperity, Is Republican Slogan.Big Ratification Tonight in Auditorium.

"Taft, Sherman and Prosperity" is the slogan that echoed from 10,000 voices in Los Angeles last night. This morning Taft and Sherman banners were strung across the streets, the new campaign badges and buttons are in place and the 1908 national campaign is fairly under way.

The first official recognition will come with the big ratification meeting at the Auditorium building tonight, when Republicans from every precinct in Los Angeles county will gather to welcome the new standard-bearers of Republicanism.

At noon the whistles of 250 local manufacturing plants will join in a "prosperity blast." The prosperity chorus will be led by The Times drum, operated by A. F. Frankenstein, leader of the Orpheum orchestra. Mr. Frankenstein will play patriotic airs on the siren, beginning at 12 o'clock sharp. This is the prelude to the big ratification meeting at the Auditorium. The regular Republicans and the insurgents have joined to make this first meeting a grand affair. Extra trains will be run by the railroads to bring delegations from the outlying towns and districts.

WILL VOICE THEIR LOYALTY.
Justice Matthew T. Allen of the Court of Appeals will be the chairman of the evening. The list of speakers includes: Hon. Oscar Lawler, United States District Attorney; Gen. H. D. O'Leary, Seward A. Simons, Lee C. Gates, W. C. Patterson, Col. Allen Aldrich, George N. Black, A. J. Wallace and Judge Curtis D. Wilber. Music will be furnished by the Army and Navy Fife and Drum Corps and by the Catalina Band.

Within fifty minutes of the time the tellers in the Chicago convention announced the vote by which Sherman was nominated for the Vice-Presidency, a banner was hung across Spring street from the windows of the Republican League bearing the inscription:

"Taft, Sherman and Prosperity."
Telegrams were on the way congratulating the standard-bearers, dated one hour earlier than the time when the result of balloting in Chicago was announced.

By the middle of the afternoon members of the Republican League were wearing buttons, wearing tags on which was engraved:

"Taft and Sherman, To Washington—1909."

The new officers of the Business Men's League were especially active. By the time the work of the convention was completed, the following telegrams were on their way to the Republican nominees:

"Hon. William Howard Taft: The Business Men's Republican Club congratulates the nation upon your selection as standard-bearer of the Republican party, and assures you that the electoral vote of California, as usual, will be found in the right column."

"W. I. HOLLINGSWORTH, Chairman."

"Hon. James S. Sherman: Accept our enthusiastic congratulations upon your nomination as Vice-President of the Republican national ticket. The combination of Taft and Sherman, Ohio and New York, on the one hand, and the electoral vote of California, on the other, is absolutely invincible. Have no concern about the electoral vote of California."

"Business Men's Republican Club, Los Angeles."

"W. I. HOLLINGSWORTH, Chairman."

On the streets and in the clubs and saloons, the Republican party was everywhere. James S. Sherman has proved himself to be an able campaigner. Ulysses S. Grant was elected his ten times to Congress, and he was chairman of the Republican National Campaign Committee in 1868.

BEAUTY LIVES ONLY
TO AID HER HUSBAND.Handsome Wife of Former Mexican Official in Trouble Here Bends Energies to Clear His Name from Stain, Asserting Plot.

I LIVE only to secure my husband's release; he is absolutely innocent of the charge made against him.

This was the fervid declaration last night of Mrs. Salvador Malacara, the beautiful wife of the former Mexican official now in the Los Angeles County Jail awaiting extradition to his old home in the State of Guantamo, on a charge of embezzling public funds to the extent of $25,000.

Handsome and devoted, this woman is exerting every energy to prevent the prosecution of her husband. She declares he has been made a scapegoat for the person who really is guilty.

Mrs. Malacara insists, however, that her husband return to their one-time home in the little town of Leon. She asserts she has just come into possession of evidence that vindicates Malacara.

It is like a romance of old Spain—this devotion of the handsome woman to her husband—with all its love, hate and intrigue; with beauty on the one hand and a desperate effort to the other of one in distress.

Extradition papers for Malacara arrived yesterday from the City of Mexico, and were placed in the hands of United States District Attorney Oscar Lawler. Special instructions from Attorney General Bonaparte are expected shortly.

SUCCESSOR BLAMED.
"Long after my husband retired from the office of internal-revenue collector of Guantamo," said Mrs. Malacara, "it was discovered that there was a shortage. His successor is under arrest, and I am positive he is trying to make my husband bear the brunt of his own shortcomings."

"It is not my love alone that prompts me in this assertion. I have papers in my possession that show my husband left his office with clean hands. The accounts were audited, the books kept, and all was found regular and in good order."

"We came to Los Angeles in September, 1907, after passing several months in the City of Mexico, and visiting my sister in Santa Barbara. We were met by the Mexican Consul here, and established ourselves in this city."

"There was no attempt at concealment, no desire to escape notice. We were astounded when a government officer called at our little lodgings and produced an order for the arrest of my husband. We could not understand it. The officer took my husband to jail."

"I was told that he could not be bailed out, as the charge was made by a foreign country. I could have no word of blame for the Federal officials. They have simply done their duty. I have been enabled to visit my husband every day and give him what comfort I could. There will be no attempt to hasten the return to Leon."

WILL GO WITH HIM.

"I shall be on the same train, and although my heart is breaking, I shall smile and cheer the man I love until he is finally vindicated."

Back of the brave words of the handsome Spanish woman lies a tragedy. Last night as she upheld the honor of her husband and defied his enemies to prove one word against him, her voice quavered and tears came into her eyes.

The family has been living in humble quarters, in a lodging-house on North Hope street. A short time before his arrest, Malacara's eyesight failed him and he was obliged to give up his position as Spanish correspondent for a local wholesale house. Nothing daunted, Mrs. Malacara secured employment here, and toiled all day and night to provide the few necessities of life.

The family is very proud and it has good reason to be. Malacara is the son of a wealthy business man of Leon. His grandfather was a general in the Mexican army. His ancestors date back to the protest blood of Castile. They have ever fought on the side of the government, and the unfortunate prisoner has letters of recommendation from President Diaz and other noted officials for his past services for the government.

HER FAMILY AN OLD ONE.
Mrs. Malacara comes of an old Spanish-American family which settled in Santa Barbara long before the American occupation. She was born in Old Mexico, where her father, Francisco Double, was in charge of a military school. She remembers the stories her mother used to tell of meeting the handsome American officers at the balls given at Monterey and Santa Barbara in the early days. She loves California and has many relatives who were prominent in the days "before the Gringo came."

Because of his desire to live in this State, Malacara gave up his government position. He is an accomplished scholar, but never learned English. After finally settling down in Los Angeles, it is evident that the young man found it difficult to obtain suitable occupation.

He scorned to depend upon his father, and wrote weekly letters telling of his success in the country where his wife's many relations lived.

While hoping for some official position, and doggedly remained at his unconsoling desk in the mercantile house until his eyesight failed him.

The couple did not despair even then. Mrs. Malacara went quietly out one day and secured employment designing the labels for a string of beads. They did not seek to enter local Mexican society because of the humble way in which they lived.

GOOD PLACE IN SIGHT.

Only a few weeks ago Malacara received a letter from Gen. Leon of Mexico City, telling him that a fine position would soon be open, if he cared to leave California and return to his native country.

The loving couple were discussing the advisability of going back to Mexico, beaten in their heroic efforts to succeed and succeeding in the end when the sudden blow fell and the husband was thrown into jail.

Mrs. Malacara possesses the rare type of Spanish beauty that one reads of in "Ramona" and the "Bride of the Desert." Her picture, down to her throat, is a study in ivory skin and raven hair. She has the air that centuries of breeding can alone impart. She makes no apologies for her poverty, nor attempts to tell of her former life of luxury and ease.

Her one thought is to obtain the freedom of her husband.

"Plenty of American lawyers have offered to take the case," she said, "but I refuse. They want too much money. We have no need for a lawyer here. He would fight for delay. We wish expedition. He would consume time in endless quibbles. But I want only the truth to be told. My father used to say that justice will always conquer in the end—but it is a hard struggle sometimes to show the courts what is the truth."

HIS FATHER WILL HELP.
"When we return, the elder Malacara will retain an able attorney. The case will go before the district judge. In case of failure there, it can be appealed. Even now, our friends in Leon are trying to get to the bottom of the plot which involves my husband."

"You smile and say that prisoners always assert their innocence. If my husband were guilty, I would be the first to tell him to confess. There has never been a stain on any member of our family. Those who know us are confident of Salvador's innocence. For the opinion of others we do not care."

Mrs. Malacara is remarkably well versed in the English language, although when excited she lapses into the more familiar Spanish tongue. But her husband has slight knowledge of English, and when he was arraigned before the United States Commissioner, an interpreter was required.

According to articles published in several Mexican papers, two officials have been arrested recently, both of whom are supposed to be in a conspiracy to involve the former collector. It is claimed that A. Arizano, Malacara's successor, had long cast envious eyes upon the important post of collector of internal revenue for the State of Guantamo. Much money passes through the hands of the official.

THE CHARGES.
The new collector asserted he found falsified accounts and evidences of theft on the part of Malacara. The deficit amounts to a large sum of money, said to aggregate nearly $25,000. Tracing the history of the Malacara family since they left Leon, it is asserted that neither husband nor wife spent much money, and upon arrival in Los Angeles their slender savings became soon exhausted, and the husband was obliged to secure work.

Federal officials anticipate that a strange story of intrigue and conspiracy will be finally unraveled and the guilty party punished. They know nothing about the truth of Malacara's assertions of innocence, the duty of the local officials being merely to obtain the necessary extradition of the Mexican prisoner.

PASSES AWAY.

MADE FAMOUS TWO NEWSPAPERS
IN THE SOUTH.

Was One of Last Survivors of Brilliant Career of Anti-Slavery Writers in New Orleans on the "Delta" and "Picaune"—Death Calls D. C. Jenkins in Peace.

The death of Donelson Caffery Jenkins, who died at Sierra Madre yesterday morning, removes one of the last of the great anti-slavery editors of the South. His newspaper career began in New Orleans when he was proprietor and chief editor of the "Delta," and later of the "Picaune."

During his connection with these papers some of his noted comrades and friends were killed.

He was born in Vicksburg, Miss., in 1825, and until lately was in vigorous health. His name is inscribed in the Confederate list on the monument at Gettysburg.

Mr. Jenkins is survived by Annette M. Jenkins, his wife; William T. Jenkins, Mrs. Agnes O'Brien-Moore, Mrs. A. F. Robertson, Mrs. Arthur Whomps and Miss Annette and Bessie Jenkins, his daughters.

POWER IS OUSTED.
Promoter no Longer Officially Connected With the Los Angeles Information Bureau.

A. M. Power, the irrepressible promoter of many dubious enterprises, has been formally discharged from the Los Angeles Information Bureau of No. 311 South Spring street, by a unanimous vote of the directors. He was ousted from office several weeks ago, but continued to represent the bureau on a commission basis, it is said.

Power appeared before the commercial body of Santa Barbara a short time ago, as the alleged duty authorized representative of the Los Angeles concern. It is asserted that he also visited boards of trade in a number of small towns in an effort to secure business.

The Merchants and Manufacturers' Association refused to endorse the information bureau while he had any connection with it. Apparently realizing that Power was destroying confidence in the concern, the directors met and passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the secretary be and hereby is instructed to forthwith notify A. M. Power in writing that said Power is no longer in the employ of the Los Angeles Information Bureau or connected therewith in any way save as holder of ten shares of stock; and to further notify said Power to immediately cease making any representations to any persons that he is an officer or in the employ of said bureau, and further to refrain from doing business or representing himself as doing any business in behalf of said corporation."

Thermal, in Coachella Valley, Taken Possession of by Company, Which Will Improve.

T. J. Watson returned to the Lancaster yesterday from Coachella Valley, where he completed the purchase of the townsite of Thermal from a number of individual landowners. With his associates he will at once proceed to install valuable improvements where there are scarcely any at present. The company for the sale of the land will be incorporated under the laws of California for $100,000 today. As soon as the papers have been completed, the improvements will be commenced. First of these will be the installation of a waterworks.

"We intend to drill a number of artesian wells to the depth of 1000 feet which will supply the community with the purest of water," said Mr. Watson. "Government analysis has shown it to be 98.6 per cent. pure. When these wells have been finished, we will install an electric plant for the production of power and light in the city. Our plans are such that they may be altered to suit the demand as it grows in years. In addition we will build an ice plant which at the outset will have a capacity of fifteen tons a day."

These improvements promise a rapid increase in the growth of Thermal, which at present has a population of about 800 people. Mr. Watson, who spent several months in the place while negotiating and closing his land deals, spoke enthusiastically of the outlook.

"The Coachella is situated on the main line of the Southern Pacific and the shipping facilities are unexcelled. Right now thermal cantaloupe growers are shipping an average of three cars a day of that product. They had grapes there nearly a month back and all their products are in a wonderful state of development. One man has been raising three crops of figs in his orchard during the past year and has averaged a net profit of $25 a tree."

FIGHTS FOR FREEDOM.
Scotch Collie Attacks Dog-Catchers and Escapes from Tolls After Biting Them Severely.

While attempting to put a Scotch collie dog into the dog-catcher's wagon at Vignes and Banning streets about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Ernest Britt and G. C. Lockridge were severely bitten. The canine tore away from them when its master called to it, and a warrant will be sworn out by the dog-catchers today for the owner of the animal.

Britt and Lockridge were hurried to the Receiving Hospital, where their wounds were attended to. Britt's arms were lacerated to the elbows and one of Lockridge's arms was chewed in several places.

FIRST NEW TAFT.
Los Angeles has the distinction of having the first baby named in honor of the Republican nominee for the Presidency. Late Thursday night, a fat little stranger arrived at the home of Patrolman Andrew Jackson Lenox, the popular crossing officer at Third and Main streets.

Taft in taking up the Roosevelt baby question as well.

The infant son of Lenox was named after the Presidential nominee. William Taft Lenox may grow up to be a member of the Los Angeles force or he may be President. At any rate he is kicking interest in a crib and taking more interest in meal times than he is in the Presidential campaign.

POLYTECHNIC RECEPTION.
Faculty and Alumni Association Are Hosts and Members of Graduating Class Are Guests.

At the Polytechnic High School last night an informal reception was given by the faculty and the Alumni Association to the graduation class, which totals summer and winter, 133. Three hundred persons attended. Prof. Locke was in charge for the faculty.

After the graduates were made acquainted with the members of the Alumni Association, they went down into the gymnasium. There for half an hour the young folks enjoyed themselves as only students can, mostly with dancing. The auditorium was the scene of the next part of the entertainment. Songs by the Boys' Glee Club of the school opened the program, followed by a talk by Paul Frankton, president of the Alumni Association. He told the graduates of the work and meetings of the association, and formally welcomed them into the society. Principal Francis gave an address.

"Vacation time is here," he said, "but vacation and recreation should not be idle days. It should be so used that you will be better able to cope with your work when it is ended."

Speaking of work he said: "If you can do your work so that you will be well pleased with it, the world will also think well of it."

Talked by C. A. Dickson of the alumni, and Frank Lillard, president of the graduating class, and another song by the Glee Club finished the program. Refreshments were served, after which the dancing was resumed.

This year's class is the first to finish the work of Polytechnic, as the school is just 4 years old. Next Monday and Tuesday evenings the seniors will give their class play, "The Crisis," in the school auditorium. The class-day exercises will be held on Wednesday evening. Thursday will be commencement, and the graduation exercises will be held in the Temple Auditorium.

Auditorium.

"Taft, Sherman and Prosperity" is the slogan that echoed from 10,000 voices in Los Angeles last night. This morning Taft and Sherman banners were strung across the streets, the new campaign badges and buttons are in place and the 1908 national campaign is fairly under way.

The first official recognition will come with the big ratification meeting at the Auditorium building tonight, when Republicans from every precinct in Los Angeles county will gather to welcome the new standard-bearers of Republicanism.

At noon the whistles of 250 local manufacturing plants will join in a "prosperity blast." The prosperity chorus will be led by The Times drum, operated by A. F. Frankenstein, leader of the Orpheum orchestra. Mr. Frankenstein will play patriotic airs on the siren, beginning at 12 o'clock sharp. This is the prelude to the big ratification meeting at the Auditorium. The regular Republicans and the insurgents have joined to make this first meeting a grand affair. Extra trains will be run by the railroads to bring delegations from the outlying towns and districts.

WILL VOICE THEIR LOYALTY.
Justice Matthew T. Allen of the Court of Appeals will be the chairman of the evening. The list of speakers includes: Hon. Oscar Lawler, United States District Attorney; Gen. H. D. O'Leary, Seward A. Simons, Lee C. Gates, W. C. Patterson, Col. Allen Aldrich, George N. Black, A. J. Wallace and Judge Curtis D. Wilber. Music will be furnished by the Army and Navy Fife and Drum Corps and by the Catalina Band.

Within fifty minutes of the time the tellers in the Chicago convention announced the vote by which Sherman was nominated for the Vice-Presidency, a banner was hung across Spring street from the windows of the Republican League bearing the inscription:

"Taft, Sherman and Prosperity."
Telegrams were on the way congratulating the standard-bearers, dated one hour earlier than the time when the result of balloting in Chicago was announced.

By the middle of the afternoon members of the Republican League were wearing buttons, wearing tags on which was engraved:

"Taft and Sherman, To Washington—1909."

The new officers of the Business Men's League were especially active. By the time the work of the convention was completed, the following telegrams were on their way to the Republican nominees:

"Hon. William Howard Taft: The Business Men's Republican Club congratulates the nation upon your selection as standard-bearer of the Republican party, and assures you that the electoral vote of California, as usual, will be found in the right column."

"W. I. HOLLINGSWORTH, Chairman."

"Hon. James S. Sherman: Accept our enthusiastic congratulations upon your nomination as Vice-President of the Republican national ticket. The combination of Taft and Sherman, Ohio and New York, on the one hand, and the electoral vote of California, on the other, is absolutely invincible. Have no concern about the electoral vote of California."

"Business Men's Republican Club, Los Angeles."

"W. I. HOLLINGSWORTH, Chairman."

On the streets and in the clubs and saloons, the Republican party was everywhere. James S. Sherman has proved himself to be an able campaigner. Ulysses S. Grant was elected his ten times to Congress, and he was chairman of the Republican National Campaign Committee in 1868.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SEVEN PRISON YEARS FOR RUBY CASSELMAN.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.
Councilman Lyon will lead the contest in the Council Monday for the passage of an ordinance closing all public dancing halls at midnight and on Sundays, and forbidding the admission of minors under 18 years of age.

AT THE CITY HALL.
NEW LAWS FOR DANCE HALLS.
MANY FAVOR SUNDAY CLOSING ORDINANCE NOW.

Lyon Will Lead Fight Monday to Make it a Midsummer to Admit Minors to Public Dances—Propose to Abolish Cakes and Close Doors at Midnight.

Councilman Lyon carried his crusade against the dance halls to the Legislative Committee meeting yesterday. It is the first party movement in which Lyon has taken a leading part and his one-time partner, Barney Healy, is watching his progress with a critical eye.

"Here all right in this, but we've got to watch him, he's getting pretty near the dead line," said Healy last night. "Some good fellows start just as Lyon is starting and the first thing you know they're off the reservation trading with the four halves."

Not enough members of the Legislative Committee attended the session to form a quorum so the discussion on the proposed ordinance was postponed until Monday. The proposed ordinance will be referred back to the Council Monday without recommendation.

Lyon will fight in the Council, the passage of the proposed ordinance permitting children to attend the public dances at the Chutes. Lyon visited the Chutes with his wife yesterday evening, he says the conditions there were as bad as anything he has seen on the Barbary Coast. Last Monday the Council instructed the City Attorney to prepare and present the draft of an ordinance making an exception of the Chutes from the other places where public dances are held. Lyon says that there is no valid reason why the Chutes should be excepted; he is of the opinion that the ordinance should be enforced rigidly at this resort.

The party crusade in the Lyon family really originated with Mrs. Lyon, she repeated to her husband some of the things she had heard about young girls attending the dances at the Chutes. Lyon said he did not believe them. Finally the two agreed to go out to the Chutes and see for themselves how the dances are conducted. If the conditions should be as Mrs. Lyon said, Lyon was to propose an ordinance to have them stopped. If the dances should be proper in form, Mrs. Lyon was to cut the acquaintance of her white-ribbon neighbors.

"I had to say or myself to be convinced," says Lyon. "I saw girls not more than 12 years old there, trilled 'cadenza.' They were dancing with toughs and rowdies. Other children straggled by and watched them dancing and drinking liquor at the tables. I am not a long hair, but I will not stand for conditions like that without making a protest."

"There are other places in town equally as bad. Since I spoke of this in the Council on Monday I have received a great deal about how such places are conducted. We are not doing our duty if we permit these places to continue."

The ordinance which will go before the Council next Monday afternoon was submitted by the Sunday Rest League. It provides that all public dancing halls shall be closed at midnight and on Sunday, that no liquor shall be sold at any public dance and that minors under 18 years of age may not attend the public dances unless attended by a parent or guardian.

ANOTHER GIRL TREADING RUBY CASSELMAN'S PATH.

Confesses to Passing Forged Checks at Santa Monica, Pasadena and Long Beach—Supposed Admission of Guilt Would Insure Escape from Punishment.

Miss Olivia Putnam, the 19-year-old girl who was arrested Thursday on a charge of passing forged checks in Santa Monica and Long Beach, made a full confession to District Attorney Fredericks yesterday afternoon. She admitted that in the last two weeks she has issued four forged checks, two for a value aggregating about $150—two in Long Beach, one in Pasadena, and one in Santa Monica.

The girl said that she got the idea of committing forgery from a fashionably-dressed woman whom she met in Long Beach, but whose name she could not remember. This person, Miss Putnam stated, told her how easy it is to get money in an illegal way, and she found it so.

In Peking, where 100 people or more are employed in the production of rugs of all kinds of material, i. e., silk, sheep's wool, camel's wool, felt, hemp, felt, yak hair and even the hair of the cow.

A high upright room consisting of large beams above and below, from which the warp is stretched, is used. In front of these several men and boys, from one to ten according to the size of the rug, are seated, knotting into the warp tufts from balls of yarn hanging overhead. The work is done in a room being so placed that each workman can see it without difficulty.

Workmen are paid at the rate of from 20 to 25 cents Mexican a day (about 10 to 12 cents gold). One square foot is an average day's work. The industry has recently been introduced in several of the industrial schools for the employment of the poor. The silk rugs are very fine and are produced in India, Turkey or Persia in colors and quality of material, but vastly inferior in design if left to Chinese selection. Foreign designs, if furnished, are faithfully copied.

These rugs differ greatly in quality. In some the warp is cotton, while in others the warp, as well as the nap or wool, is silk. Some are made of the finest wool, while others the wool is raised. The quality also differs in the number of warp threads used to the inch, which varies from two to twenty, as well as in the quality of the silk yarn.

The cheapest are sold at from $1.20 to $1.50 a square foot, while the better qualities regularly bring from $2 to $3 a square foot. The quality of the material is the most important factor in determining the price. The rugs are made on the same loom and in the same manner as the silk rugs. The wool is of the same quality and the same design and color to suit the taste of the purchaser. The weaving qualities of these carpets make a very economical floor covering, and age softens and blends the colors, which are in all reliable places of manufacture of vegetables dyes.

The carpets are highly valued by the local residents and tourists are made from camel's wool, the prices ranging from 25 cents to $1 a square foot. These rugs are heavy and frequently are fully one-half inch in thickness. They are fashioned in all kinds of designs, floral, geometrical and dragon.

The rugs made from the other materials mentioned (the yak excepted) are used only by the natives, and range in price from 4 cents to 25 cents per square foot. Those made from the hair of the yak are very rare and expensive, and are used by the natives of the interior provinces of China.

It is interesting to note that the method of manufacture was first used in making saddlecloths and trappings for horses used in process and by Chinese of high rank, developing into the rug and carpet industry on the advent of the foreign trade.

Blankets are still used and often are highly finished in the most elaborate designs and patterns.

FOR PRESIDENT, WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.
FOR VICE-PRESIDENT, JAMES S. SHERMAN.

Editorial Points

The Constitution still follows the flag, and Mr. Taft follows his smile.

William Allen White believes that the campaign will be "a fight or a frolic." It will be both.

The campaign will be bitter. And the reason why is that Bryan will be one of the candidates.

Mother Ohio proudly announces to a waiting world that she has given birth to another President.

Kipling says that "When a lawyer is once dead he is always dead." This is at least some consolation.

The whiskey vote and the ice-wagon vote are free to acknowledge that they are badly disappointed in the result.

The country appears to be going ahead as calmly as though the Fourth of July were not approaching with frightful rapidity.

They say the convention was not sufficiently enthusiastic. Its longest stretch of continuous cheering lasted only fifty minutes.

If it can be said truthfully that the Chicago convention was under orders, what will be said about the Denver convention?

Hughes will find consolation in his work, Uncle Joe in his cigar, Fairbanks in a good glass of buttermilk and Cartwright in his faithful typewriter.

The man in the gallery who stood ready to shout "Teddy" at the psychological moment, shouted, all right, but the psychological moment was missing.

There is a rumor that George Fred Williams will be nominated for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket. He is all that's needed to complete the joke.

Philosopher Burton says: "The convention was, on the whole, Republican." The effort will now be to keep the candidates of the convention out of a hole.

Charles Schwab declares that all rich men are honest. David said that all men are liars, and we suppose this might be stretched to include Mr. Schwab.

Simultaneously with the nomination of Taft, we notice the announcement that railroad shops and other large industries are putting idle men back to work.

As the Fourth of July approaches, many people are wondering why Mr. McKinley has not devoted his talents to the invention of a noiseless fire-cracker.

Our impression is that there are still a number of churches that vote their preachers a regular annual salary, and then compel them to collect it by getting up donation parties.

According to a Pennsylvania prophet, June was foredoomed to be a month of disappointments. Several favorite sons are already in evidence to prove what the prophet said.

It won't be long after the convention until Mr. Bryan makes some kind of a remark that will call for another remark from Mr. Roosevelt. It is then that the fur will begin to fly.

Thomas F. Ryan asserts that he intends to restore his native State of Virginia to her ancient dignity. The public may now look forward to a large issue of watered Virginia stock.

It is believed that this State will again go Republican, although the convention declined to nominate George A. Knight, or to insert a plank in the platform endorsing the California climate.

"Politics are of no more importance than the price of beef," says the Washington Post. But if you talk to the people you will find that the price of beef is a serious matter with them.

We think the janitor of the White House may as well apply to the furniture factory for a specially-built Presidential chair, guaranteed to stand up under a weight of at least 300 pounds.

We have no doubt that the English newspapers will note that President Roosevelt is no longer a popular idol, because he received only three votes for renomination in the Chicago convention.

Although Mr. Bryan will be compelled to go before the country with only one nomination this year, it is believed that his defeat will yet be not less emphatic than it was on former occasions.

The negroes came out of the Chicago convention not without honor. They produced the one real error, and proved that they are not ungrateful to the man whom they looked upon as their friend.

The Washington Post thinks Mr. Bryan will do all his explaining before the Denver convention. He will be able to do it, probably, if the Denver convention shall be postponed for about twenty-five years.

Having had a hint that something along these lines would be laid in the platform, it is not thought that Mr. Roosevelt blushed when he read the references to him as they appeared in the newspapers the next day.

JAMES SCHOOLCRAFT SHERMAN.

If anything were needed to assure Republican success at the polls in November next, that assurance was given in the convention at Chicago yesterday, when the Hon. James Schoolcraft Sherman of New York was nominated for Vice-President on the ticket with Mr. Taft.

There has been a good deal of talk about the "steam roller" and all that sort of thing, the impression to be gained from it being that the White House was riding rough-shod over the opposition. Those who complained were those who had hold of the small end of the stick, of course, but we are to remember that there is no middle ground in politics. Victory on the one side and defeat on the other is all there is to it.

Mr. Taft was out to win, and his lieutenants were taking no chances. In politics, as in war, it does not do to take chances. In war, as Napoleon said, God is on the side that has the biggest battalions, and in politics success lies with the side that corals the most votes and lines them up on the roll call and at the ballot. This is what Mr. Taft's fighting forces had to do, and they did it. The steam roller is not a new thing in politics.

But the country has been shown in the nomination of Mr. Sherman for the Vice-Presidency that the Taft people were not out to "hog" the whole business. There is a class of Republicans who, although defeated in the Chicago convention in their efforts to nominate a man of their choice for first place, are yet entitled to recognition because of the fact that they represent a good deal of the stamens and backbone of the Republican party. Mr. Sherman is of this element, and his nomination is a concession to it. By placing him on the ticket, the party goes to the country strengthened at every point and armed to the teeth for the foe.

Mr. Sherman's public career is such as to make him very acceptable to the conservative element of the country, and to the great financial interests which furnish grist for the industrial mills. He is liked by the men who put their money into the large enterprises that furnish full dinner pails for labor, and that have made it possible for the American workman to attain a degree of prosperity never reached by the workman of any other nation in all the history of the world.

In addition to these recommendations, the nominee for the Vice-Presidency commends himself to the country on the essential ground that he is a trained statesman, having served twenty years in Congress, and thus schooling himself in the craft of government. If, by the decree of Divine Providence, Mr. Taft were to die while occupying the Presidency, "which God forbid," as Uncle Joe Cannon said in the convention, James Schoolcraft Sherman is fitted by education, by nature and by every test to lay hands on the helm and to steer the ship of state past any danger that might threaten it. And it is once more Ohio and New York—which spells "Victory."

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

One form of cruelty to animals that is not often thought about is the manner in which we keep unfortunate beasts penned up in small cages in our public menageries. Day before yesterday in Los Angeles a tiger attacked its keeper and inflicted severe injuries upon him. It is not surprising that such incidents happen. The wonder is that they are not far more frequent. What do you suppose would be the disposition of a man who should be shut up in a cage about twelve feet square, and subjected to the taunts and insults of all passers-by who might choose to have "fun" with him? Wouldn't he soon be in such a mental condition that he could cheerfully commit murder? To visit animals that are thus cruelly confined can give no pleasure to a right-thinking person. A great majority of those who visit such places do not, however, give the subject a thought.

Hagenbeck, the greatest animal dealer of the world, has laid out a zoological park near Hamburg, in which the animals roam around under conditions that closely resemble those to which they had been accustomed in their native haunts. The various enclosures are separated by deep ditches, sloping inward, bordered by hedges, and arranged in such a manner that the animals cannot cross them, while at the same time these barriers are invisible to the spectators, so that from the outside the tract presents a unique appearance, with animals of all kinds, carnivorous and herbivorous, roaming around apparently at liberty.

These remarks about animals in zoological gardens apply also to the keeping of pet birds at home. The only reasonable way to keep them is in a spacious aviary, with shady branches. If you cannot manage that, at least see that your bird has a roomy cage in which to spend his imprisonment. The best way is, however, to encourage the mocking birds to nest in your garden—and to discourage your neighbors' cats.

It is the small, narrow mind that ignores the feelings and sufferings of our dumb fellow-creatures. All truly great men have been considerate to the members of the animal kingdom. "He liveth best who loveth best, For the good Lord who loveth us, He made and loves them all."

THE SITUATION IN PORTUGAL.

Occasional news items and the infrequent letters of special correspondents give us warning that affairs in Portugal are not as they should be. We read, for instance, of the discovery that the crown jewels had been pawned by the King who was recently murdered, and of the pathetic resolve of the boy monarch to retrieve the disgrace of his father. At another time we learn that ready money in the palace is so scarce that the treasurer clamors for payment. Still another dispatch informs us that emissaries of the Duke of Braganza, the pretender to the Portuguese throne, are penetrating the country in every direction, and that the hopes of the claimant are high. Then, again, we hear rumors of extraordinary activities of socialists and anarchists, who breed in the atmosphere of dissatisfaction like flies in festering meat. These items take but a few lines in the telling. We read them and we forget them, but they assume a sinister significance when we recall the fact that Portugal is without the safety valve of a popular press, that public opinion there has no reflecting pool, that 90 per cent. of the people can neither read nor write, and that every one of the causes of discontent that produced the dictatorship of Franco and the assassination of Carlos is undiminished in its gravity.

When Franco fled the country after the cruel tragedy that killed a King and a Crown Prince, there was a chorus of unthinking congratulation from those who assumed that the dictator was responsible, and who rejoiced in his overthrow. A greater knowledge of the situation has now modified opinions that are seen to be precipitate. It was because Franco was a friend to the throne that he seized the reins of power, in order the better to thwart those who would subvert it. Because he was a royalist, he sought, of course, lawlessly to break the web of revolutionary treason that was slowly being woven around his master. Franco's overthrow was not the work of those who resented the murder of the King. It was accomplished, on the contrary, by those who feared that he would stand between them and their revolutionary designs. It was a bad day for Portugal when Franco fled the kingdom. Not a single evil that distinguished the reign of Carlos has been abated. The only change has been from a weak and genial

FOUR WINNERS.

King to another King, who is a helpless child, and the disappearance of the modicum of statecraft that then existed.

Now we learn that the insurrectionary organizations are once more in full activity, after the momentary paralysis caused by the murder of the King. The lower classes are, of course, discontented, but it is the spasmodic, unreasoning discontent induced by high prices, and it is quickly forgotten under the spell of the tavern and the dance. As in the case of Russia, the center of revolution is with the "intellectuals," with the young men of the universities, whose ambitions have been awakened by education, and who as easily imagine that they have been called by providence to the regeneration of their country. A mental conceit thrives marvelously where knowledge, however scanty, is the rare exception, and an almost incredible ignorance the prevailing state. The University of Coimbra is the mental center of Portugal. It was the students of Coimbra who fomented the agitation that culminated in the murder of Carlos, and while they may be acquitted of so horrible an intention, they have not allowed themselves to be diverted from republican ideals by a crime against royalty for which they are not without responsibility and which shocked the world.

The young men of Coimbra University would be harmless enough if they were left to themselves. The peasants have no other idea than to drink, to dance, and to obey the village priest, whose sympathies are with the monarchy. Even if the peasants knew the meaning of republican government their sympathies would still be with the unreal glitter of the monarchy as a part of national tradition. But, unfortunately, the "intellectuals" are not left to themselves, nor have they wisdom enough to understand the fatal nature of the aid and encouragement given to them by anarchists and socialists on the one hand, and by the Duke of Braganza upon the other. They could no more govern the storm that they are invoking than they could shake the Atlantic billows that break upon their beaches. The anarchists and socialists are past masters in the art of stimulating an ignorant popular fury, and they are working strenuously to that end, while the Duke of Braganza is waiting only for turmoil to give him the coveted opportunity to intervene. The peasants cannot be charmed by the prospect of an orderly republican government that they do not understand, but they are ready to listen to promises of easy plunder and of a new order of things, in which the tax collector plays no part. And in the meantime, anarchy and a bastard royalty shelter themselves under the unseemly leadership of the university, well content to hasten a national welter from which they hope to profit.

Unfortunately, we cannot hope that Portugal will consume her own smoke when the inevitable conflagration ensues. England is pledged by immortal tradition to come to the aid of the Portuguese throne whenever aid is needed, and it would indeed be strange if Germany should be found without claims or pretensions of her own wherever territorial property is concerned. In the course of a month or so the Portuguese harvest will be gathered and the wine will be stored. Then will come the period of greatest danger, and it will indeed be surprising if the country can pass through it unscathed.

THE STANDARD AND THE PUBLIC.

The Standard's change of tactics is shown by Vice-President Schofield's statement to the press denying that the great corporation seeks to depreciate property at Midway by inducing lessees to abstain from development, or that it backs royal land claimants, while admitting indirectly, at least, that it is in the market for oil territory. At the same time a leading official of the company is quoted along the same lines, but goes still further on the question of acquiring lands. A few years ago the Standard thought it beneath its dignity to admit that the public had the least concern in its doings. Most newspapers ceased to apply for information, and the last statements were sent out unqualified.

But this is not the only evidence of a change. The same willingness, even eagerness, to give information and to correct misleading articles has been observed on other occasions. John D. Archbold, an official very close to Rockefeller and a hearty supporter of the Standard, published recently in a magazine a history of the Standard and its great, world-wide achievements, in which he frankly acknowledged that the policy of secrecy had been a mistake, responsible for many of the company's difficulties. Without doubt he wrote this after consultation with his colleagues as a sort of official announcement of a change. Mr. Archbold is right. Much of the feeling against the Standard has been due to its attitude of cynical contempt for public opinion, its surrounding every move with an air of mystery that may have caused wrong impressions to be published and accepted, when a frank statement from corporation representatives might have cleared the entire matter.

There may be some things which neither the Standard nor any corporation or individual can be expected to make public at all times, perhaps; but when men conduct operations of such magnitude as to rule almost absolutely a business which affects the welfare of tens of thousands, and are able to make or destroy the enterprises of others, and have become the acknowledged controllers of one of the greatest industries on earth, their doings are no longer entirely private. They have no right to consider them as such. The public will never indefinitely submit to this attitude, a fact which the Standard is evidently learning.

If the change of tactics is in good faith—and we should assume that it is, in the absence of evidence to the contrary—the Standard will find in time that frankness pays. At first, some may be suspicious, and the only way to disarm them is to continue the policy of open dealing. If truthful statements are to be obtained from the Standard headquarters, as from other companies as a rule, a great deal of trouble may be saved. The policy should have been adopted years ago, but "better late than never."

HOROSCOPE.

Saturday, June 20, 1908.

Now turns the sun and ends the lengthening days. Fortuna arise, the nations to amaze.

On this, the 172nd day of the year, the length of days reaches its limit. The moon, entering the last quarter, has Mercury, Venus, Mars and Uranus in benefic aspect. Mercury is stationary in the zodiac.

The nations shall be disturbed and perplexed and "afflicted with wonder and alarm" in the period that now ensues; but for this individual concerns the coming hours are all well.

Deal with others, seek work, travel, court, marry, ask favors, push all affairs.

Be particularly zealous before 3 p.m. The brightest influence is over the early hours.

Hire servants and undertake any other domestic or social work.

The next three days should be good for all things connected with fin and water.

At 1:30 p.m. there will be special power in herbs under Mercury, lavender, fern, parsley, savory, marjoram and licorice.

A lucky birth anniversary.

Women with this birthdate may look forward with hope to a prosperous year, socially and domestic. Those in business will succeed.

Men with this birthdate should have an extremely successful and fortunate twelvemonth.

The planetary signs for children born today are: Girls, energy, good aspirations and amiable manners; boys, pluck, perseverance, rapid rise in life and general success.

Staub's For Your Children's Shoes

Mainly because we sell better shoes for the money than you can find elsewhere.

Our selection of children's styles is practically unlimited, for not a new novelty appears that is not shown at Staub's first.

We're more than careful in fitting—never in too much of a hurry to see that the little feet are fitted to perfection.

Whether it is the strong and sturdy for school and vacation, the finer qualities for dress, remember that Staub's serves you best.

Come in today and inspect the new summer styles.

Nottingham Curtains, Half Price

Being somewhat overstocked on this particular style of curtains, we shall close them out at exactly half price until they are gone; an unusually good buying opportunity for housekeepers or anyone in need of thoroughly good curtains:

Nottingham curtains in madras and cable net weave, some of them corded; both white and Arabian; three and four different patterns in nearly every price mentioned; actually worth and previously sold at $1, $1.40, $1.60, $1.90, $2.30, $2.80, $3.50 and $4 a pair—now 50c, 70c, 80c, 95c, $1.15, $1.40, $1.75 and $2 a pair

Nottingham and cable net curtain ends, some in madras weave, in white or Arabian; good for any short window, especially priced at .25c each.

In a Hill Street window is shown a display of summer furnishings that should suggest many an idea for beautifying and making comfortable lawns, porches, etc.—adjustable chairs, hammocks and floor coverings of substantial nature, modestly priced.

Tapestry Brussels carpet, made, laid and lined for 60c

On Tuesday we shall hold a very noteworthy sale of colored silks of seasonable styles, at unusually low price. See details in Tuesday morning's papers.

New Waists at $2.00

Brisk selling has diminished the number of these splendid waists materially; those that are left may go at two dollars apiece, though they're worth considerably more:

Tailored waists are shown in white madras, with stiff linen collar and attached stiff cuffs; neat patch pocket with turnover flap—splendid for business or outing wear; in lingerie models, a dozen or more different styles; all of good materials, charmingly lace and embroidery trimmed, some with touches of colored lace; both plain and "frilly" styles to select from, all at $2.00
